The Anti-Bias Award

Information and Guidelines

The Anti-Bias Award

The Anti-Bias Award is an annual award presented by Social Justice In Early Childhood in partnership with MultiVerse and Early Childhood Australia and is awarded from The Anti-Bias Fund that has contributions from public donations, author royalty donations from The Anti-Bias Approach in Early Childhood, and donations from MultiVerse. The Koori Curriculum and Yarn Strong Sista have also generously contributed to the 2018 award.

There are 2 categories for the Award:

1. Anti-Bias Award for an individual

2. Anti-Bias Award for group/organisation/collective

Purpose of the Award

The Anti-Bias Approach in Early Childhood (3rd Ed) edited by Dr Red Ruby Scarlet has been integral to both quality and equality in early childhood. Since its initial publication in 1995, this book has informed practice across the country – in all types of children’s services, in professional development workshops and programs, and in tertiary training and education courses. Anti-bias approaches have been the cornerstone of numerous teacher-research and practice-based studies undertaken in Australia. These studies are unique because they are teacher-research undertaken by early childhood teachers for early childhood educators and teachers.

While parts of the profession have sustained the use of anti-bias approaches in their practice, the speed at which the field is growing and the ever-changing policy landscape has caused anti-bias approaches to be less familiar to many professionals and less explicit in everyday practice.

This award has been designed to encourage educators and teachers from across the field of early childhood to reignite and reengage with anti-bias approaches, as well as to recognise educators for their pedagogical leadership in making anti-bias practices central to the everyday rather than an 'add on' to practice.

Award and Prizes

2018 Prizes include:

- An invitation to present at the annual Social Justice in Early Childhood Conference;
- $1000 worth of cash prizes to be spent on furthering anti-bias projects and resources;
- $1000 worth of vouchers from Yarn Strong Sista and ECA; and
- A mentor (a leader in the field) to assist with the production of an advocacy/activist action.

The Anti-Bias Award is presented at the annual Social Justice in Early Childhood Conference.

In 2018, there are two categories for the Award - an Individual Award and a Collaborative Award.

The winner in each category will receive:

- An invitation to present at the annual Social Justice In Early Childhood Conference;
- $250.00 from the MultiVerse Anti-Bias Fund; and $250.00 from The Koori Curriculum to support further anti-bias resourcing and projects;
- A $250 voucher from Yarn Strong Sista;
- A $250 voucher from Early Childhood Australia;
- A mentor. The outcome of this time spent with a leader in the field of ECEC will be an advocacy/activist action: an article for publication in an appropriate national publication (ECA), as well as the Anti-Bias Stories blog.

Applications for the 2018 Awards are due by 5:00pm, 15th June 2018.
